FOREWORD

WE are happy to submit to our classmates and school friends the SPINNER for 1935. In presenting this volume, we are mindful of the hearty co-operation received from friends of our school, and we are most grateful for it.

Our supreme hope for the SPINNER is that it will spin the thread tying the receding present and the approaching future; and in the years to come, when recollections of school days are dim, that you will often turn the pages of this book in order to live again the happy days of '31 to '35.

MISS SARA ANITA MIMS

D E D I C A T I O N

We gratefully and affectionately dedicate this volume of the SPINNER to Miss Sara Anita Mims, friend of high school students and sponsor of our Senior Class.

We shall always cherish the fellowship and struggles that we have had together in high school and precious among our memories will be the one to whom this book is dedicated.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

Early in September, 1931, three hundred freshmen set sail on the good ship "Education". We had as our destination, Graduation, and we were seeking that illusive dream—Diploma.

Many became sea-sick at first, but our captain, Mr. Frank L. Ashley, aided by his first mate, Mrs. Joe Wray, guided us into more peaceful waters and we settled down, anticipating a very enjoyable voyage. At last came the end of the first lap of our journey and we arrived at Sophomore to refuel.

It was during our stay here that we encountered our first exciting adventure. Sara Killian won the State Federation Hymn Playing Contest. About seventy of our crew, who found the sailing too rough, had disembarked; so we now had on board about two hundred and seventy-eight. Also, we had been forced to leave behind our first mate; and so upon stopping to refuel, we took on a new one, Miss Annie Glenn, who was very valuable to us in many ways. We also secured a very helpful second mate, Betty Lou Thompson, who remained with us throughout the entire journey. On board we engaged in new and entertaining activities. We soon finished the second part of our journey, and Junior came into sight. Our destination did not seem very far away now.

This third part of our voyage, with Mr. Ashley continuing to pilot the ship, but with Miss Martha McAdams as first mate and Lillian Craig as second, was made on a much rougher sea, and we lost a few more of our crew. However, the majority of us had become experienced sailors. We had more responsibilities and were beginning to feel our importance. We took an active part in athletics and furnished from our ranks some of the outstanding athletes. At this time an enjoyable event on board was the Junior-Senior Party.

And now we have come to the last lap, the final stretch—Senior. It is to us the most important and also the most enjoyable. We now have as our first mate Miss Sara Mims, who with her second mate, Betty Lou Thompson, is safely guiding us to our destination. Some of our crew have won honors. Dorothy Griffin's essay on Good Citizenship was acclaimed the best in the county. Sara Killian, who was chosen to represent us in the "Ruth Bryan Owen Trip to Washington" contest, won third place in the state and was given a gold medal. Also from our crew came the best actors, we think. The superb acting of Stanley Holcomb, Arleigh Skinner, and Catherine Todd in the Senior Class Play, "Mignonette," cannot be surpassed.

Our voyage has been one of the best with few fatalities, and all of the disturbances at sea were overcome with little trouble.

Land is in sight. Our dream is about to be realized. We have won our diplomas, and though none of our members will ever be genuii, we will always strive to reach the pinnacle in life.

ROSALEEN CLINTON, Historian.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

It is the year 1950 when by a strange feat of medical science the prophet of the class of 1935 of Gastonia High School is awakened from a state of suspended animation. It is indeed a changed world which now greets the eyes of the prophet, who is still a youth due to the effects of a strange gas received in a war which the United States fought with the countries of the Orient. The victims of the "OPIUM GAS", as it was called, were not harmed but were merely paralyzed to such an extent that they were entirely inactive. Your prophet was one of the thousands who were thus affected. A few of the victims who were not hurt otherwise were taken back to America in order that their cases might be studied.

After ten years of constant research, Dr. Henry Rankin and the eminent chemist, Gene Bell, perfected an antidote to the gas and were successful in administering it to their former school-mate. The reunion of the former school boys was a happy one. It was decided at once that they join the "GREAT WILLIAMSON and CARPENTER CIRCUS." The owners, Clay Williamson and Calvin Carpenter, made them such a splendid offer due to the fact that they had received so much publicity that they simply could not refuse.

After the first performance had started, who should appear but the lovely Emily Williams Patrick and her husband, Neale, king and queen of the bareback riders, resplendent in glittering tights and astride dark black horses dashing into the big tent. Close behind them came Willie Boyd and Inez Goodson selling candy made by the well known confectioner, Mack Little. With a blare of trumpets Haskell Spencer and his band entered, and along with them came the world's funniest trio of clowns, Stanley Holcomb, Tom Kendrick, and Norman Morrow. Holcomb was discovered in a high school history class. Next came a procession of fan dancers led by the ravishing beauty, Rosaleen Clinton. In the front line were Barbara Howell, Annie Lee Winget, and Edith Allen. Just as the band stopped playing the new song sensation, "SHE WAS ONLY A WOODCHOPPER'S DAUGHTER, BUT SHE HAD NEVER BEEN AXED," written by the famous torch singer, Jean Williams. Ringmaster George Jenkins entered. George announced that the team of Max Rhyne and Susie Killian would give an exhibition of interpretative dancing. Following the first movement of the dance which, by the way, was never finished, Ruby Hawkins and O'Neil Holton, aquatic stars went through a series of fancy dives. Hoyt Blackwood, their manager, became nervous and left the show. He forgot to pay them before leaving. The girls then hired Clyde Allen as their lawyer. Hoyt hired Lee Hagans to defend him. This alone proved his mentality. As the performance was getting under way, County Sheriff Wylie Quinn, and his two deputies, Bill McLean and Charles Bryant dashed into the arena and arrested the owners and the entire cast. After several trips the sheriff finally had the entire band of entertainers incarcerated.

It developed that the circus had been under the complaint of the Rev. George Hawkins and his wife, the former Eunice Barkley. All the performers were allowed to go about the jail at certain times for their good behavior and on one of my afternoon walks whom should I see but the world famous gunmen, Ralph Parrot, Ed Quinn and Albert Van Sleen. The authorities were looking for their companions, Dorcus Wyatt, Martha Padgett and Kathleen Huffstetler. An election was held the next week and all the prisoners were released on promise that they would vote against the Reform Party led by Helen Wood and Margaret Wynn, returned missionaries from South America. These girls felt that they would be successful and promised to close the burlesque show run by Lois Crawford, Martha Thomas, Dorothy Carver, and Betty Willis in the notorious south side.

The doctor and the chemist returned to their professions after the brief sojourn with the circus, but the prophet decided to wander about and accepted an invitation to visit New York and "THE MAYFAIR NIGHT CLUB" run by Betty Lou Thompson and June Trout. The girls always were famous for their ability to entertain. Arleigh Skinner and Eugenia Ratchford were the floor show beauties. It was whispered around Wall Street that two different sets of escorts from brokerage firms were required every six months to keep these girls in hand. Martha Gunter, Nancy Carpenter, and Martha Lindley were doing quite well as cigarette girls. One of the outstanding features of the big city night life was the club's own dance review, "THE CORN-FED GIRLS FROM THE SOUTHLAND". Among the beautiful girls were Ruth Cash, Margaret Lytton, Lola Foy, Edna Fite and Nell Propst. The featured vocalist was Aurilla Ramsey, who was accompanied by Dorothy Griffin. While I was glancing around the spacious ball room, Richard Aycock appeared with Mrs. Aycock. Richard was gaining much prominence prosecuting Jack Wilcox and Charlie Todd, who were charged with jewel smuggling. Mrs. Aycock, the former Carolyn Henderson, had changed very little since her high school days. Everything she was told went in one ear and over the back fence. Ebby Lee Murphy, a pawn broker entered and greeted several well known figures in the world of finance. He was accompanied by five of his office girls: Mildred Kaylor, Ellen Grigg, Alton Morris, Bertha McCoy, and Emily Torrence. Murphy was worried about his business—even his office girls' finger nails were in the red.

On the suggestion of Zoe Gilbert, a policewoman, I decided to visit a few of the shops on Fifth Avenue. A large sign which read "SHANGHAI LIL'S SHOES, INC.", met my eye. Upon entering I saw Lil Lavender herself displaying her dainty feet as she modeled her own creation in latest shoe styles. She was assisted by a bevy of pretty ladies including Janie Crawford, Lib Martin, Evelyn Thomas, Lena Thompson, and Blanche Willis. Bill Newton, dressed in a glittering uniform, was standing nearby. I learned later that he was the doorman. After talking over old times with the girls, I decided to visit a clothing store and was told that Catherine Cathey's establishment was the best. It seemed that Catherine had married Clyde Moton and had moved to his animal farm in Africa. Clyde stayed at home and sent the furs to Catherine, who had gone to New York and opened the store. Lillian Craig, Gladys Jackson, and Pinke Green worked with her in the business. Just as I was about to leave, Carson Withers, manager of the Giants, entered and suggested that we go back to Gastonia and look over the old home town.

We boarded a plane belonging to the Braswell and Francum Airlines which was piloted by Aubrey Rabb and the hostess was Katherine Johnson. Upon landing at the city airport a short time later, we were greeted by Chief of Police Clyde Williams. Clyde took charge of Carson and I was left to take care of myself. Just as I was about to sink into desperation, who should appear but Annie Mae Childress. Annie Mae invited me to spend my time while in the city at her hotel. I later discovered that she meant money instead of time. After a brief rest at the hotel, I decided to take a tour of the Main Drag. The first familiar face was that

THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

State of North Carolina
County of Gaston
City of Gastonia

We, the Senior Class of 1935, being in good spirits and of sound, sane (maybe), sober and reflective minds, at the present time, and realizing that our sojourn at G. H. S. is fast growing to a close, and knowing we must soon pass from this life of exams, flunks, speeches, trials and tribulations, do hereby declare, publish, and make known that this is our last will and testament.

Section I

Article 1.—To the Faculty we do will and bequeath our sincere appreciation for their many kind acts and noble efforts shown us while under their care.

Section II

Article 1.—To the Junior Class we will the Senior privileges and the balance (if any) of our treasury.

Article 2.—To the Sophomores we do will our scholastic achievements.

Article 3.—To the Freshmen we do bequeath our dignity.

Section III

Article 1.—I, Sara (Susie) Killian, do will my galloping gait to Dot Hanna.

Article 2.—We, Grover Boyd and Gene Bell, do will our places on the bench to Ham and Henry Childress.

Article 3.—I, Weltha Battle, do will and bequeath my pet freckle to Dixon Wood.

Article 4.—I, Arleigh Skinner, do will my "come hither" look to Mary Lillian Rankin.

Article 5.—I, Dot Griffin, do bequeath my giddy giggle to Helen Pearson and Thelma Spargo.

Article 6.—I, Marjorie Gunnin, do will my bored worldliness to Mary Jeff Regan.

Article 7.—I, Catherine Todd, do will my "family pride" to Sara Robbins.

Article 8.—I, Bill Newton, do will my "peskiness" to J. R. Warren.

Article 9.—I, George Jenkins, do will my winning "poisonality" to Billy Rankin.

Article 10.—I, Lillian Craig, do bequeath my extra poundage to Sara Sue Moss.

Article 11.—I, Martha Padgett, do leave my "gift of gab" to Mary Katherine Kelly.

Article 12.—I, Barbara Howell, do leave my flirtation ways to Porter Stiles.

Article 13.—We, Carolyn Henderson and Helen Wood, do bequeath our contagious grins to the highest bidder. One at a time, please.

Article 14.—I, Catherine Johnson, do will my indifference to Martha Jenkins.

Article 15.—I, Clay Williamson, do bequeath my perpetual yawn to Dan Shields.

Article 16.—I, Emily Williams, do bequeath my Mae West figure to Eleanor Cashwell.

Article 17.—I, Buddy Morrow, do bequeath my bright remarks to "Mac" Anders.

Article 18.—I, Eunice Barkley, do bequeath my athletic prowess to Alice Smith.

Article 19.—I, Martha Gunter, do will my history grades to Fred Byrd.

Article 20.—I, Rosaleen Clinton, do will my ability to recognize Hi-Y boys to Milly Glass.

Article 21.—I, June Trout, do bequeath my ready blush to Dot Wallis.

Article 22.—I, Betty Lou Thompson, do bequeath my "perfected knee action" walk to Martha Adams.

Article 23.—I, Yates Campbell, do leave my one and only English answer to "Jigger" Ritchie.

Article 24.—I, Stanley Holcomb, do will my irritating deliberation of mind to Walter Reedy Thompson.

Article 25.—I, Richard Aycock, do leave my "New Bird" (strip-down) to R. B. Wilson.

Signed, sealed, and published by the Class of 1935 to be its Last Will and Testament on this fifteenth day of March, Anno Domini, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five.

of Helen Frieze. Helen told me that she and her former schoolmates, Blanche Froneberger, Mary Charles Grigg, and Weltha Battle were running a farm sold them by Lois Brison when she moved to Lincolnton to become mother of a ready made family of seven. The girls said that the produce business was exceedingly good and that they hoped to make enough money so that they could go to Europe to see Marjorie Gunnin, who had married a penniless Russian Count.

Not being in the market for produce, I decided to see a movie. On my way to the theatre, I passed a grocery store and was hailed by Henry Quinn. He was very much excited because Mildred Jenkins and Jean Brooks, two old maids, owed him a rather large bill. He threatened to have them prosecuted and said that he was going to hire Harold Franklin as his lawyer, because in securing Harold he would have the sympathy of the court. Just then, along came Charles Gillespie and invited me to be his guest at his theatre. The invitation was readily accepted when he told me that Catherine Todd and Jane Hanvey were the stars of the picture, "Why Boys Don't Leave Home."

A short time after the feature started, I was seized by a drowsy sensation. Charles insisted on calling in a doctor. Slowly the scene changed, and I awoke in what I was told was the operating room. Over me stood Dr. Marion Dellinger and three nurses, Margaret Shelby, Jeanelle Schultz, and Marian Wilson. The doctor shook his head slowly and said that the effects of the gas had returned and nothing could be done. Then came a strange desire to lapse into insensibility; then a rushing revival of soul and vision of the last short time of life passed on. A weakening heart pounded against my ribs, and a struggling soul strived to live; but at last the web of sleep was broken and slowly your prophet passed on as the day melts into the night—but where?

GROVER BOYD, Prophet.

SENIOR CLASS POEM

The stress of school days buffets like a storm,
It serves to sweep away each barrier tall
That keeps us from the straight and upward road
And then 'tis gone—it seems short, after all.

What purpose have they served—these busy years—
When they have passed and gone upon their way?
We find a road that's clear from obstacles
That leads to dawning of a brighter day.

The Girls' Athletic Association has the largest active membership of any club in high school. There are enrolled as active members nearly three hundred girls who have participated at some time during the school year in some sport. The following sports are held during the various seasons of the year: swimming, basketball, baseball, and archery, with a week's practice for hockey in the spring. This year the organization presented a Play Day program to which girls from eight nearby schools were invited and during an entire afternoon team games, individual contests, and relays were held. This is the first event of this kind to be held here. May Day drew the usual large audience and the Robin Hood theme was exceptionally attractive. Mrs. Charles D. Whisnant, Girls' Physical Education Director, was again a most capable and interested sponsor.

Short Front Row: Alice C. Smith, Isabelle Bradford.

ARCHERY

One of the most outstanding sports in the activities of the girls this year was Archery, there being at least thirty of the girls participating. The leader was Sarah Ellen Long. Since this was the first year of Archery in this school, the American and Columbia rounds were used. At the end of the practices, a class tournament was held, the highest Little John. The May Day theme was based on the Robin Hood legend, and archery was used with this.

COACHES

The success of our athletic teams this year is greatly due to their coaches, who have with much care trained and inspired them. Mr. Whisnant and Mr. Stapleton, in coaching football, Mr. Stapleton in coaching boys' basketball, Mr. Ratchford in directing baseball, and Mrs. Whisnant in coaching girls' basketball, have spent much of their own time in helping to form teams that are good and true representatives of our High School. With much appreciation, admiration, and pleasure we dedicate this page of the Spinner to our coaches.

Gastonia High School is fortunate in having the high type of coaches she has, and expresses our sincere thanks to them for helping to make our Senior Year one of success and joy.

FOOTBALL

The 1934 edition of G. H. S.'s football team went through a fairly successful season considering its weight, size, and experience. With only one letter man eligible out of the ten that were in school, Coach Whisnant molded a very scrappy football team, which showed considerable improvement each game. With this experience gained and with the return of fourteen letter men from the 1933 and 1934 squads, G. H. S. football should be able to atone for its own past two gloomy seasons.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM

This year's team enjoyed a very successful season with an even number of wins and losses to their credit. The team was led by Eunice Barkley, a senior whose play up was outstanding, and whose place will be hard to fill another year. Mary Talley and Fannie Little held the other forward positions. Each of these players has another year in which to develop. The guard positions were filled by Alice G. Smith and Martha Jenkins, as regular players, and Amanda Newman, Annie Mae Childress, and Mildred McKee contesting for the third position. Porter Stiles as forward and Christine Evans and Elizabeth Lewis as guards, were regular substitutes. Janice Little was an excellent manager and Mary Talley was the trainer for the year. The work of the coach, Mrs. Whisnant, has done much toward helping to develop better players. Class games were held as usual with the Juniors winning the championship.

BOYS' BASKETBALL TEAM

Gastonia High's basketeers have just finished their most successful season in the past several years. Out of the three or four lettermen and some raw material, Coach Stapleton developed a fast combination.

Although not having a championship team, the team won two of its conference games from stiff opposition. Coach Stapleton, with the improvement shown in each game, and the fact that only one letterman is leaving is looking forward to the '36 season. With these bright prospects, it looks as if the G. H. S.'s basketball teams will be heard from in the future.

BASEBALL

Coach Ratchford's 1935 hopefuls are hard at work for the approaching baseball season. The prospects for a good season are very bright as we are getting new outfits and we have nine or ten lettermen reporting for practice. We are expecting to have another good season and hope to go as far, if not farther, in the state race as our former teams have gone. We have a schedule of nine games with five of these being scheduled at home and four away. We are hoping to schedule two or three more games in the state pennant race.
